WHAT IS GENEVER?

- Genever is a distilled spirit made from malt spirit (moutwijn), juniper berries and botanicals.
- Genever is the missing link between gin and whisky.
- Genever is the ancestor of gin. However, genever is not a gin. It is a category on its own.
- Genever is allowed to be made in Belgium, the Netherlands, Northern-France and parts of Germany.
- Genever was the first spirit to be sold globally, together with French brandy.
- Genever was one of only four spirits used in pre-prohibition cocktail recipes.
- Genever is the traditional spirit of the Netherlands.
- Genever can be barrel aged but does not have to be aged.
- Oude genever is often comparable to whisky.
- Jonge genever comes close to gin, or sometimes even vodka.
- Genever is one of the oldest spirits in the world.
